

Acted as if driven by a motor; could not remain still Interrupted conversations or would intrude on the conversations of others
Blurted out answers to questions before the question was finished
Had difficulty taking turns and waiting
Was abused or victimized						